

A Call to Action to Confront Racism

The Jewish Community Relations Council (JCRC) of the Greater Miami Jewish Federation builds bridges between the Jewish community and other faith, ethnic, political and civic groups. We believe we are strongest when we work in partnership, and that together, we must jointly address the deeply entrenched prejudices in our world.

To effect meaningful change in ourselves, our institutions and in our society and to confront systemic racism, each of us has a responsibility to:

EDUCATE ourselves about the personal narratives of those impacted by racism.

ACKNOWLEDGE our own prejudices and do the difficult work to address our implicit biases.

SHOW UP by supporting the Black community in public forums.

SPEAK OUT by condemning racist statements and actions whenever and wherever they occur, in public or in private.

ADVOCATE for change with elected officials through visits, phone calls, letters, emails and social media posts.

VOTE in national, state and local elections where authorities have control over the systems that most impact people's daily lives.
